David Strickland has had a good response to his request for Strickland family group sheets for publication, with the first volume nearing completion. David, a member from our first year, will be providing these at cost. He adds that the project is involving about three times the work he anticipated!

This price information was received after the notice on the following page was printed. We are glad to have Mrs. Curtis's involvement, and wish her a rapid recovery from a broken wrist!

Mrs. Mary Barnett Curtis, a Strickland genealogist for 40 years, and possessing probably the largest trove of Strickland genealogical material in existence, is offering our members her North Carolina Strickland Research Notes, a 125 page compilation of 17th-19th century genealogical records grouped chronologically under county and individual, at $45 postpaid (a 10% discount from her regular price). Though the content of this 1976 book is extensive, she emphasizes it does not contain all she now has. (An index to this work, with over 3,000 entries, is now available for $5 from Strickland Research, Inc.)

Also available from Mrs. Curtis are reprints of The Strickland and Allied Families Query and Answer Exchange, originally published by her from 1959-1964, at $35 postpaid for the complete set. Each issue of S&AFQ&AE is full of queries raised a generation ago and genealogical data of enduring value.

Mrs. Mary Barnett Curtis's address is 3812 Lafayette, Fort Worth TX 76107.

MEMBER NEWS

Edra S. Young of Sebastian FL reports that some of the descendants of Henry Strickland (1792-1862) held a reunion in Daisy, Evans Co GA this past April. Edra passed out family group sheets there for correcting and updating, and says the response has been "unbelievable". She has 3,000+ names in her computer now, with many from past years' research still to go. She has been using the Family Ties program, but plans to change to Roots III. Edra was in a terrible auto accident in November 1986, from which the doctors thought she would die. After a week they went ahead and fixed her leg, but pronounced she would be in a wheel chair thenceforth. We are not surprised, but glad, to hear that Edra is walking without help!

The Tennessee Genealogical Society, POB 111249, Memphis TN 38111-1249, publishes The Tennessee Genealogical Magazine, "Ansearchin'" News for a subscription price of $15.00 per year. Subscribers may submit one query per year of 50 words or less, that must be received by September first of that year. Back volumes from 1954-1988 are available.

An index to Mary Barnett Curtis's North Carolina Strickland Research Notes (1976), compiled independently by Robert C. Stricklin, is available for $5.00 from Strickland Research, Inc. This 30-page index, with over 3,000 entries, greatly facilitates use of Mrs. Curtis's book as a reference. All receipts from sales of this index are retained by Strickland Research, Inc.

Mary Barnett Curtis, publisher of Strickland and Allied Families Query and Answer Exchange from 1958 to 1965, remains active as a genealogist. Some present day place names on the accompanying Sampson County map may be cross-referenced to the deed records more readily than others. Many geographic features (branches, swamps, ponds & pocosins, et al.) exist that are unnamed on the U.S. Geological Survey maps from which the preceding map was compiled. Purdom Swamp was not found. Most major watercourses had a tributary named "Beaverdam Creek" or "Beaverdam Swamp". There was more than one Williams Pond or Lake, two McClam's Crossroads, etc. Hall's Store, Chapel and Cemetery were in the same general area, but miles apart. Goodwin's Chapel is far from the Cumberland County town of Godwin (unmarked, but along the Seaboard Line RR near Falcon).

Downstream from their confluence, the Great Coharie and Little Coharie become the Black River, while the South River (the boundary between Sampson and Cumberland Counties) begins where the Black River of adjoining Harnett County meets the mouth of Mingo Swamp (the boundary between Harnett and Sampson Counties); on 18th century maps the name Black River was (sensibly) given to the entire watercourse, upstream and down, and the midpart now called South River. Adding to uncertainty, old maps imprecisely show two branches east of the Black River headwaters, "Black Creek Swamp" and "Black Mingo", in the approximate relative position of present Mingo Swamp and Starling/Beaverdam Swamps.

The name Coharie refers to the Coharie Indians who inhabited the area. A "pocosin" or "pocason", a word of Indian origin, is an area of low ground, miry in the summer, and covered with shallow water in winter, sometimes with no or only a little outlet (a "blind pocosin"). Mingo as used here probably meant a place where a band of Indians had resided; Black Mingo would describe a deep darkly gladed mingo, as a forest or swamp could be called "black". It is hoped that the map will help our research more than it confuses!
